The Walkley Awards

Nikon Portrait Prize

Nikon Portrait Prize

Portrait photography is a specialist skill. The judges will look for powerful images that capture the character and strength of their subject(s). Entrants must submit a single image only.

Entrants must provide details about the camera model used to capture the image(s) to assist the judges in their entry statement.

Each entry to the Walkley Awards is judged on how well it responds to the:

- category description; and
- judging criteria.

Entries into the Walkley Awards must comply with the Terms & Conditions.

For information on the judging criteria, please refer to the FAQs.

Category Partner

Entry name

First name

Last name

Entrant email

You must provide a personal email address. Do not provide a generic email address, for example, a general enquiries inbox of an organisation. This is because the Walkley Foundation often needs to make contact in short timeframes to resolve issues with submissions.

Mobile number

Please enter a valid mobile number that can be reached from within Australia. You must provide a direct phone number. Do not provide a generic phone number, for example, the front desk of an organisation. This is because the Walkley Foundation often needs to make contact in short timeframes to resolve issues with submissions.

Address

Please provide the address of your current residence.

☐ I am a MEAA Member (optional)

MEAA covers the entry fees for its financial members. MEAA has the right to verify the membership of any entrant claiming this waiver.

Employer / Organisation / Publisher / Distributor

Social media handles (optional)

Please provide your social media handles if you would like the Walkley Foundation to tag you if you are a finalist or winner.

Please provide a 50 word bio.

50 words

Please include a 50 word bio written in the third person.

Joint, group and team entries must write one bio reflecting all members.

This bio will be used online, at the Walkley Awards live event, and in printed collateral if you become a finalist and/or winner.

Some tips: Include your full name, names or team name; your position or specialty; and your employer. You may like to include particular stories or projects you are proud of. You may wish to include you where you are based if it is relevant to your work.

Headshot: Individual entrants, Joint/Group member 1 or whole Team image.

Please upload a high resolution headshot (that's a file size of at least 1MB - or 1000KB). Name the file with your/their first and last name, i.e Firstname_Lastname

Teams of 5 or more people can use this space to upload a team image.

Individual entrants: provide one headshot. Name the file with your first and last name.

Joint or group entries with up to four people: Provide one headshot per member with each file clearly named; or one team shot.

Team entries with five or more people: Provide one team photo or a logo or image that represents your team. Name the file with your team name.

The photograph or image you provide will be used online, in printed programs, and at the Walkley Awards live event if you become a finalist and/or winner.

Some tips:

- Include headspace and your shoulders in the image
- Make sure the photo is well lit so your face is visible
- You don't need a professional headshot - you can take a photo with a smartphone
- Submit an appropriate image (e.g. avoid party pics and don't include images with children for their safety)
- Don't overthink it. You look great!

Headshot: Joint/Group member 2.

Entry Statement

410 words

Your Entry Statement is your opportunity to explain to the judges how the work you are submitting excels when measured against the category description and judging criteria.

It is also a space to explain anything behind the scenes that may not be visible to your audience but adds to the journalistic excellence of your submission.

A strong Entry Statement is written succinctly and aids the judging process.

You may wish to explain how the story came about, what measurable impacts it led to, what challenges you encountered producing it, how it was resourced, whether it was exclusive, how it might be innovative, if it is ongoing, and so on.

If there is anything the judges might question - for example, any ethical or editorial issues - don't leave them wondering. Address it here in your Entry Statement.

Your Entry Statement is held to the same journalistic standards as the work you are submitting and any element of it could be fact-checked. Keep your Entry Statement factual, avoid misleading embellishments, and always opt for full transparency.

Camera Brand

Please provide the brand of the camera that was used.

Camera Model

Please provide the model of the camera that was used. (e.g. Sony Alpha A7 IV)

Name of verifier

This must be a person. This must not be a program, masthead, department or network.

Verifier's email address

Provide the direct email address of the person who will be verifying this entry. They will receive an automated email seconds after you submit your entry asking them to confirm the work is legitimate.

Do not provide a generic email address. It is unlikely your entry will be verified if you do and we often need to follow up with your verifier in a short timeframe.

If your work cannot be verified by an appropriate person, or we cannot contact an appropriate verifier in a short timeframe, your entry could be determined ineligible.

If you are entering works published in different media outlets, select one person to receive the automated email to verify the work relevant to them, and clearly provide the names and contact details of the other verifiers in your Entry Statement. You should contact each verifier and explain this process.

Please be mindful, we may need to contact your verifier/s at any point.

Works must be verified to progress to the judging stage.

Verifier's position

Please provide your verifier's job title / role

Verifier's mobile

Please provide a direct mobile number for your verifier. Do not provide a generic phone number.

☐ I declare all work submitted in this entry adheres to the MEAA Journalist Code of Ethics .

☐ I declare the work submitted is original to the entrant/s, and will not infringe the legal rights of any other party, including but not limited to intellectual property rights, privacy rights, and other rights of ownership and publicity.

If you have any matters to declare, add them to your Entry Statement.

☐ I have declared any requests for corrections or challenges to the accuracy of the work submitted in this entry, any claims of plagiarism against the work, and any corrections or statements made concerning the work's accuracy or authorship.

If you have any matters to declare, add them to your Entry Statement.

☐ I declare that I (along with members of my group/team) am an Australian citizen, permanent resident of Australia, or journalist residing in Australia working for an Australian media outlet on an appropriate visa; or am an Australian citizen working for international news outlet/s whose work is available to an Australian audience.

Note: the majority of a group/team must be Australian citizens or have the relevant visa. If you or any members of your group/team are in Australia on a visa, please note those details in the box below.

Please also note below which, if any, members of your team are not Australian and based overseas, and where they were based in the making of the story / stories.

Non-Australian team member details: (optional)

If you or any members of your group/team are in Australia on a relevant visa, please note those details in this box.

Please also note which, if any, members of your team are not Australian and were based overseas, and where they were based in the making of the story/stories.

Legal declaration

Entrants must declare and summarise any actual or threatened legal proceedings, complaints, and court orders in connection with or related to the story at the time of entry, including but not limited to:

- a) defamation;
- b) contempt of court;
- c) breach of confidence;
- d) suppression and non-publication orders;
- e) copyright infringement; or
- f) actions for preliminary discovery.

If you have anything to declare regarding legal proceedings, complaints or court orders, please list them here. If you have no matters to declare, write NONE. Then check the declaration box below.

The Foundation will take this declaration into account in assessing the suitability of the entry and inform the entrant if the Foundation makes a determination that entry of the relevant story into the Awards is not appropriate due to any of the above matters.

The Foundation reserves the right to disqualify any application and/or revoke any nomination received or award given to the relevant entrants where the Foundation determines, in its absolute discretion, that the application for entry did not include a sufficient declaration as to the above matters.

☐ I have declared any actual or threatened legal proceedings, complaints, and court orders in connection with or related to the work submitted at the time of entry, including but not limited to defamation, contempt of court, breach of confidence, suppression and non-publication orders, copyright infringement, or actions for preliminary discovery.

If you have any legal issues to declare, you must note them in the box above, or write NONE. Then tick this box.

I declare that in respect of the story/stories entered, that all payments, inducements, or benefits provided to interviewees, participants in the story/stories, their representatives, or other related parties, either directly or via other means, including value-in-kind benefits:

- ☐ Did not total over $200
- ☐ Totalled over $200, as uploaded in an itemised table below

The Walkley Foundation is vigilant with respect to “chequebook journalism”. Stories and interviews that are paid for are not eligible for a Walkley Award. Allowance is made for reasonable/minimal payment and/or reimbursement of expenses.

You must declare and quantify in detail in the space below all payments, inducements, or benefits over a total value of $200, provided to interviewees, participants in stories, their representatives, or other related parties, either directly or via other means, including value-in-kind benefits.

For more information regarding this, see the Terms and Conditions: <https://www.walkleys.com/awards/walkleys/terms-conditions/>

The Foundation may request further information, including receipts, invoices, or other documentation in order to determine whether your application for entry into the Awards will be approved.

Tick the relevant box.

AI Declaration

Please use this field to list any AI tools you used to create your journalistic work or works submitted for this Award. If you have not used any AI tools, write NONE. Then check the declaration box below.

Entrants must declare any and all use of artificial intelligence (AI) used in producing the works entered and preparing their submission. This includes but is not limited to data scraping, using language-based systems such as ChatGPT for writing and scripting, transcription services such as Otter.AI, and AI image tools to create artwork, photography, data visualisation, and other graphics.

Where the Foundation determines, in its absolute discretion, that the use of AI has rendered a story unsuitable for entry into the Awards, the Foundation reserves the right to disqualify any application and/or revoke any nomination or award given to the relevant entrants.

- ☐ I understand and accept that responsibility lies on entrants to ensure submitted works can be accessed by judges throughout 2025, and failure to do so could disqualify my entry.

You must either upload your work or provide a URL if it can be freely accessed. Responsibility lies with you to make sure the URL remains current for all of 2025 and can be used by judges and Walkley Foundation staff over the course of the year.

If the work you are entering is behind a paywall, it is strongly advised you upload a copy with your entry (e.g. a .PDF or .mp3 file).

If you chose to submit a URL instead, you must clearly provide a login and password in your Entry Statement. Responsibility lies with you to make sure these remain current for the calendar year.

We must stress, if the work is behind a paywall, it is always best to upload a copy of it – time and time again entrants provide log-in details that are either incorrect or change after they submit.

- ☐ I have declared any and all use of artificial intelligence (AI) used in producing the works entered and preparing this submission. This includes but is not limited to data scraping, using language based systems such as ChatGPT for writing and scripting, transcription services such as Otter.AI, and AI image creation for artwork, photography, data visualisation, and other graphics.

If you have any use of AI to declare, you must note them in the box above or write NONE, and then tick this box.

- ☐ I declare that the information provided in this entry is true and correct. I understand and accept that any misrepresentation may be grounds for refusal of my application.
